I had the opportunity to work with Sharon and her team, firstly as a mediator then ultimately as my yearly accountant. I found Sharon to be straight forward and professional. Her advice has always proven to be sound and unbiased. Sharon has continued to work with both my ex-husband and myself to ensure that our tax returns are balanced in terms of our children (dependents) which is much appreciated and took away any distrust that may have existed on a financial front. Sharon now works with my adult son, advising him on tax issues as they relate to the small business that he has started. Thank you Sharon, for your ability to bring clarity to our personal finances over the years.

I have had the opportunity to work with Sharon and her team to assist me with a difficult separation and divorce. I appreciated Sharon's no nonsense approach and thorough knowledge which assisted greatly in the challenges faced. I would recommend Alberta Divorce Finances without hesitation to anyone in a similar situation to ensure you have a solid understanding of the financial implications of decisions made now and in the future. She is a sound advisor, provides solid recommendations and takes time to listen. An outstanding service provider for her clients.

Sharon is fantastic to work with. We were going through a fairly amicable separation and needed some help figuring out what would be a fair division of assets and support. Sharon worked with both of us and was fair, neutral, and guided us to a fair agreement - saving us literally thousands of dollars in legal fees. She also worked with her legal contacts help us get our agreement drawn up very quickly in order to close a real estate deal and finalize the separation. I would recommend anyone going through this to consult Sharon for advice and mediation.

Sharon was able to guide the mediation process and get to an agreed resolution (separation agreement) during difficult time. Mediation in my opinion was the way to go prior to moving to the legal phase. I would recommend Sharon, as well as for tax services following divorce.

At the worst time in my life, Sharon was able to offer me stability and pragmatic advice, assuring me I would be 'okay'. Thanks to her advice, I was - and am. She is a great accountant, and has been looking after my taxes for the past five years. I can't recommend her highly enough.

Doing your taxes correctly post separation or divorce--especially when children are involved--can be very daunting. Sharon was referred to me by a trusted friend and she helped me sort through the process to ensure everything was completed accurately. Her advice has been INVALUABLE and I honestly would never trust anyone else with my taxes. She knows her stuff! I cannot recommend her services enough.

I've benefitted from Sharon's help and clear explanations of complex issues several times. After every discussion, I left feeling more confident in my understanding of very complicated finances. She also runs short one-to-two hour seminars and webinars on various divorce finance and tax issues that are very helpful, both for the information, and the Q&A's at the end; you just need to get on a mailing list for these. I highly recommend Sharon for simple-to-understand financial guidance.

Separation and divorce are expensive. Get started in the right direction by contacting Sharon. With the help of Sharon and my lawyer, I was able to draft a separation agreement that made sure my children's financial needs were provided for. Ten years later I am still very happy with that separation agreement. Separation/divorce is a funny thing. You don't need to know about it, until you do, and those crucial decisions you make in those first months have life long consequences for you and your children. I recommend Sharon to anyone who needs to know about spousal and child support, dividing up assets, and doing taxes after divorce. Don't sign a separation agreement blind. Ask for Sharon's help.

Sharon started helping me with mediation services to help establish my separation agreement about 10 years ago. Since then, Sharon has provided my accounting services - always practical, professional, and helpful!
